

26 October 2011

Media release

Allconnex rewards water wise students

Allconnex Water has announced the winners of its 'Make your water mark!' competition as part of National Water Week.

Students from Upper Coomera State College's (Gold Coast) 2V class won the primary school category after each student created colourful posters with water wise messages including 'turn off the tap when brushing your teeth' and 'take short showers'.

The Bright Horizons Australia Childcare (West Burleigh) group took out the early childhood category for their vibrant collage, which highlights water saving in the home.

Year 3F students from Macleay Island State School (Redlands) won the highly commended category for designing posters using bold messaging to challenge fellow students to conserve water.

The winning groups were presented by Allconnex with certificates, water themed illustrated children's book/s, and an Allconnex prize pack.

The 'Make your water mark!' Watersaver education program sees children from age three to five and school students from Prep to Year Seven research and get involved in activities that raise awareness about water conservation and encourages long-term behaviour change.

The program has been developed by teachers, for teachers, to support the delivery of water education to early childhood, primary and secondary students.

Allconnex Water makes it easy to deliver water education to school students and provides a number of free additional educational resources, such as complimentary classroom presentations and wastewater treatment plant tours.

For more information about the 'Make your water mark!' Watersaver education program and to view winning entries please visit allconnex.com.au/community/education/Pages/default.aspx.

Inquiries: Steve Sayers, Media Officer
p 07 5570 7303

