

24 May 2011

Media release

Allconnex reads all meters in Redlands

Allconnex Water is reading meters in the Redlands area until 18 June.

If Allconnex is unable to gain access to a meter on the first visit, the property is visited a second time to read the meter.

If the meter still cannot be read, we leave a card at the property advising that access to the meter was not possible and asking the customer to contact us.

If access remains an issue, we contact the customer to pre-arrange access.

It is only after all these processes have been exhausted that we estimate a reading based on historical consumption data at the property.

You can assist water meter readers by:

- Ensuring the water meter is accessible
- Ensuring your dog is restrained or you have notification on your property that a dog resides there
- Ensuring the area around your meter is not covered by grass clippings, rubbish or other obstacles. Spiky plants and bushes should be removed from the meter area.

In cases where an unusually high meter read is obtained, Allconnex advises customers to check for leaks.

Water consumption charges from this reading will appear on your next Redland City Council rates notice under water and wastewater charges.

If you would like to track your water use, check out our website allconnex.com.au for details on how to read your meter, or call us for a fact sheet on 1300 000 928.

Inquiries: Steve Sayers, Media Officer
p 07 5570 7303